

Christina Dorando

Christina Dorando is the founder, owner and president of four preschools – two in Hoboken, one each in Lyndhurst and East Hanover. In establishing her business, Christina's work included developing business plans, securing the necessary state and local licensing and the funding, and managing the associated construction projects. She now oversees a large professional staff at the four centers and retains responsibility for all operational, financial, marketing and human resource matters. Christina graduated from Carnegie Mellon University with a degree in Policy & Management and International Relations, and received her M.Ed in International Education Policy from Harvard.