

Lesson 2

Dear Parents,

Hey there! We've finished week two of our study on service, and only have one more week to go. I hope that your student has had as much fun as I have had exploring what it means to be a servant.

This week, the lesson was entitled "The Servant Who Suffered." Your student learned that Jesus was the ultimate example of what a servant should be, and that He modeled the attitudes we should have. We challenged the students to see service as one of the defining marks of their identities as Christ-followers.

We looked at the following Scripture passages:

- Isaiah 53:3-5
- Philippians 2:5-8
- John 13:1-16
- John 15:12-13

I encourage you to read these verses and talk with your student about them.

Next Steps . . .

During the next week as you have time to talk with your teenager, consider asking the following questions:

- Did you realize how much Jesus gave up for us? Describe some of what he gave up in your own words.
- What was something new you learned about Jesus and how He modeled a servant's heart?
- What is something you can do to follow this example? How can I help you do that?

Thank you for supporting our ministry and for choosing to make time to engage your child in his or her spiritual growth. Look for one more Parent Page from me next week.
